

CALL FOR PAPERS #01/2022

XXIII Symposium of Production, Logistics, and International Operations Management - SIMPOI 2022

LOCATION – Online event

DATE – May 23 and 24, 2022

1. PRESENTATION

In 2022, the XXIII Symposium of Production, Logistics, and International Operations Management (SIMPOI) – a traditional event in the area of operations management – becomes an event of ANPAD's academic division Operations Management and Logistics (GOL).

SIMPOI keeps its initial purpose of promoting the debate and developing relevant topics among professors, researchers, students, entrepreneurs, and professionals in the area. In the 2022 edition, SIMPOI will expand the debate with the participation of the Brazilian Association of Production Engineering (ABEPRO) in several of its activities.

The XXIII SIMPOI will a) promote the development and application of knowledge in the area of production, operations, and supply chains management, b) strengthen recent research on emerging themes, and c) foster new research agendas.

Researchers, professors, students, and managers of public and private organizations will experience cutting-edge knowledge to improve the teaching and application of the theme in manufacturing and service organizations.

The GOL division invites all interested parties to participate in SIMPOI 2022 and strengthen our community.

2. TYPE OF SUBMISSIONS

This call for papers is open to submissions in two categories: presentation of academic articles and paper development workshops (PDW).

2.1. Presentation of Academic Articles

2.1.1 Theoretical-empirical article – presents findings of relevant research based on different theoretical and methodological perspectives, analyzing a theme with consistency and showing a contribution to the field.

2.1.2 Theoretical essay – presents a discussion based on a relevant and consistent theoretical position in the area of knowledge. The essay states the assumptions behind the arguments discussed, characterizing the author's position in relation to given theories. A theoretical essay usually requires a deep analysis of the existing literature on the subject addressed and can be characterized by critical reflection, interpretation density, and alternative propositions to analyze the topic and contribute to future studies.

2.1.3 Technological article – in previous events promoted by ANPAD, the “technological paper” was called “technological report.” It is a manuscript describing and discussing managerial cases of (i) application of technologies or processes, (ii) development of administrative, accounting, and related technologies, (iii) implementation/application methodologies, and (iv) software related to the management of organizations, promoting intervention in the institution. Thus, the nature of a technological paper is the application. They must observe the methodological, conceptual, and writing rigors valid for other types of scientific manuscripts.

2.2. Paper Development Workshops (PDW)

Paper development workshops (PDW) are designed to provide authors with guidance and expertise in developing their manuscripts for possible submission to a leading journal. Workshops include general presentations on specific journals by members of their editorial staff and roundtable discussions that provide authors with practical and developmental feedback to strengthen and improve their articles. Works in an advanced state of data analysis and presentation of results may be submitted. The workshops will be open to those participating in SIMPOI 2022.

3. AWARDS

ANPAD academic division GOL will award studies in the following categories:

- 3.1 The best manuscript of the event, chosen by GOL's scientific committee and a representative of ABEPRO.
 - i. The awarded manuscript will be entitled to fast track in the reviewing process in one of ANPAD's journals (RAC and BAR).
- 3.2 The best manuscript resulting from a PhD dissertation, chosen by GOL's scientific committee and a representative of ABEPRO. The award will be granted to one of the three manuscripts that obtain the best scores in the reviewing process.
- 3.3 The best manuscript resulting from a master's thesis, chosen by GOL's scientific committee and a representative of ABEPRO. The award will be granted to one of the three manuscripts that obtain the best scores in the reviewing process.
- 3.4 SIMPOI's best reviewer, chosen by GOL's scientific committee.
- 3.5 The best young researcher, chosen by GOL's scientific committee, the chair of the division, and the scientific director. The award will be granted considering the following criteria:

- 5.11. References, citations, charts, tables, and figures must follow some standard of formatting reference, such as ABNT or APA.

6. SUBMISSION INSTRUCTIONS

- 6.1. The manuscripts must be submitted through the ANPAD website (www.anpad.org.br), where the identification fields and instructions for submitting the work in PDF will be available.
- 6.2. The authors are responsible for ensuring that the works comply with the characteristics and technical criteria presented in this call for papers.
- 6.3. A maximum of three manuscripts may be submitted per person, either authored or co-authored.
- 6.4. Each work must only be submitted once; multiple submissions of the same work will not be accepted.
- 6.5. Each work can be authored/co-authored by a maximum of six individuals.
- 6.6. Papers may be submitted in Portuguese, English, or Spanish.
- 6.7. The submitted PDF manuscript is considered the final version.
- 6.8. The authors' names must not appear in the manuscript or in the name of the PDF file. Authors' data must be informed in the appropriate field available on the submission website.
- 6.9. After submission, no inclusion, exclusion, substitution, or alteration of name, e-mail, institution, or parts of the submitted manuscript or other information provided at submission will be accepted.
- 6.10. At the time of submission, authors must make sure that their iANPAD account has updated information. This information will be used in the paper submission process.
- 6.11. If, after the submission, an update is required for the iANPAD account, the data in the submission system will not be changed. To rectify incorrect data, the submission must be canceled, and the paper must be re-submitted, as long as it is within the deadline set in this call for papers.
- 6.12. The authors will be solely responsible for problems arising from non-updating personal and registration data.
- 6.13. Manuscripts works cannot, under any circumstances, present explicit identification (name typed in the body of the work, in its abstract, or in the file properties), hidden identification, or citation of the work of the authors themselves in a way that allows identification. Those whose authorship is identified will be excluded from the event.
- 6.14. Acknowledgments must be exclusively institutional; no personal acknowledgments are permitted.
- 6.15. Before uploading the manuscript, authors must verify that the files are not infected with viruses. Infected files will be excluded.
- 6.16. When submitting the manuscript, the authors must choose the type of submission: theoretical-empirical, theoretical essays, or technological articles.
- 6.17. Submissions will not be accepted after the deadline (Item 4).
- 6.18. ANPAD is not responsible for submissions that are not completed due to communication failure, congestion of communication lines, lack of electricity, server slowness caused by excessive simultaneous accesses, or any other technical factors that make data transfer impossible. For this reason, it is recommended that authors complete their submissions in good time to avoid any technical difficulties that may occur.
- 6.19. Save the conference dates (May 23 and 24, 2022). The presentation of the selected papers will take place in a session allocated by the event organizers on any of these days. Authors will not be able to choose presentations dates and times.

7. ORIGINALITY OF WORKS SUBMITTED TO ANPAD EVENTS

- 7.1. The authors must declare the originality of their paper at the time of submission. The authors are responsible for confirming the originality of their papers.
- 7.2. Papers accepted for publication or published in journals, published as book chapters, or presented at previous ANPAD events are not considered unpublished for the purposes of this call for papers, and should not be submitted.
- 7.3. When requested, authors who fail to prove originality may be impeded from presenting papers in future ANPAD events.

8. GUEST PAPERS

The chair of the division can only submit one paper to the event. This submission will be considered a guest paper. The chair of the division must be the first author, and the paper has to be submitted to an interest group of their division.

9. REVIEWING PROCESS

- 9.1. The manuscripts will be evaluated through blind review. If one or more authors are identified, the paper will be excluded from the process.
- 9.2. Two reviewers will evaluate each manuscript. In case of discrepancies, a third reviewer will be appointed.
- 9.3. . The reviewing process will consider only manuscripts that meet the submission rules and submitted before the deadline.
- 9.4. Files submitted in the submission process cannot be replaced.
- 9.5. The academic division coordinated by the scientific director will evaluate submissions exclusively based on the quality of the paper.
- 9.6. The chairs of the divisions and the divisions' scientific committees will carry out an initial evaluation of the submitted papers before sending them to the reviewers. This initial assessment aims to identify whether the work meets the minimum requirements – conceptual, methodological, editorial, and format – to be considered a scientific paper.
- 9.7. The chair of the division may, at their discretion, exchange the papers among the interest groups to which the manuscripts were submitted.
- 9.8. The final selection by the scientific director will take into account the combination of the following items: (i) the result of the reviewing process; (ii) the adequate number of papers to be presented at the event; and (iii) the time available for the presentation of each paper.
- 9.9. The chairs of the divisions, members of scientific committees, and leaders of interest groups will not have access to data from authors.
- 9.10. When a member of a scientific committee or a leader of an interest group is the author of a paper submitted to the academic division they are part of, the system automatically blocks access to the user's paper, preventing any action, such as designating reviewers and monitoring the reviewing process.
- 9.11. The authors' names will not be revealed to reviewers, and the name of the reviewers will not be revealed to the authors.

10. REGISTRATION AND ACCESS TO THE ONLINE PLATFORM

- 10.1. Registration in XXIII SIMPOI is individual. Regardless of whether they are an author, only registered participants will access the online event.

- 10.2. Registered participants will receive the password to access the event's platform through the e-mail provided at registration.
- 10.3. Registration is personal, non-transferable, and non-shareable. Participants are requested not to share their passwords to access the event's platform under any condition or justification.

11. INCLUSION IN THE EVENT PROGRAM AND ELECTRONIC PROCEEDINGS

- 11.1. Selected manuscripts will be included in the program only if at least one of the authors registers for the event. The attendee must be prepared to present the paper using the format indicated by the event committee.
- 11.2. Payment of the registration fee mentioned in 10.1 must be made by April 28, 2022, for the paper to be included in the program and event proceedings.

12. FORMAT OF THE PAPERS' PRESENTATION IN THE EVENT

- 12.1. When submitting their paper, authors accept that the manuscript may be presented in any of the presentation modalities adopted during the event.
- 12.2. The final decision regarding the form of presentation of each work will be up to the academic divisions and the scientific director. The choice will be made as a result of the interrelationships between the selected papers and the availability of time for presentations. Authors will not be able to appeal against the chosen format.
- 12.3. The interaction between participants and authors and the presentation format will be adapted to the online environment, using synchronous and asynchronous presentations.
- 12.4. Further details on online interaction and instructions to authors will be made available soon.
